Before help could reach him Canales sank for the third time.

Saturday and Sunday the pit was dragged for the body but to no avail. When the corpse was discovered floating on the surface Monday by the laborers of the gravel company, astonishment was expressed by the coroner, due to the fact that drowning victims seldom rise before nine days.

Alvarado Pumping Rights To Be Sold To Alameda County Water District

Value of Water Rights Acquired From East Bay Municipal Utility Estimated at A Million Dollars

(By Chris Runckel)
Sec'y Alameda County Water District

The Alameda County Water district has agreed to buy the pumping rights and other property of the East Bay Municipal Utility district at Alvarado. As a result the pumping at Alvarado for use in the East Bay cities will be stopped in the near future and the drain on the underground water supply of the District that has been going on for the past thirty-five years will come to an end. The bringing in of the Mokelumne supply has made the sale possible. The attempt of a private corporation, the Foshay Co., to secure these pumping rights hastened the action of the District and made it necessary.

The friendly attitude of the East Bay Municipal Utility District in giving the Alameda County Water District the preference and in cutting down hte price to bring it within the resources of the District made the purchase possible.

The price to be paid including 384 acres of land at Alvarado is $290,000. The lowest estimate on the value of the land is set at $50,000 and it is believed that the District will realize a larger sum than this bringing down the actual cost of the pumping rights and equipment to $240,000 or less. In order to make the purchase a heavier water district tax than has heretofore been levied will have to be made this year to cover the initial payment. The balance it is hoped can be met with a bond issue later on.

The value of the rights acquired are estimated to be worth at least a million dollars to he Al-

Editorial Comment

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

COULDN'T STAND PRAISE

A PIECE of publicity matter reaching the Register a few days ago and bearing the signature of James Kelly, carries the writer back to Chicago and forms the nucleus of a story of one who could not pursue the even tenor of his way with warm words of praise ringing in his ears.

James Kelly in the old days was city editor of the Chicago Tribune, which modestly proclaimed itself "The World's Greatest Newspaper," then and still does. Discriminating critics confess that its boast is not without merit and accord it, if not the greatest newspaper in Christendom, at least equal to those counted as the most powerful politically and those which have reached the acme of domestic and foreign news comprehensiveness.

The Tribune is owned and managed by the McCormick family, great newspaper people. They saw a chance to capitalize on the then city editor, Kelly, just as Hearst advertises Brisbane as the highest paid editorial writer extant. The paper never lost a chance to tell the wonders of Kelly, his uncanny anticipation of great events about to transpire, and who in one of his seances would rush to the press room, stop the presses, dispatch a reporter to a certain section of the city, where, when he arrived, a world tragedy was instantly enacted, and the Tribune of course, as the story goes, scored a world beat. That sounded good. It made the paper money. It made Kelly famous.

At first Kelly realized it was more or less "bunk" but after a while he "fell for it," to use a vulgar expression of the street. He became a superman in his own imagination, but not, however, in the minds of those who paid his princely salary. Out of the prosperity which the paper brought him, Editor Kelly saved a hundred thousand or so. It wasn't long until our friend began to believe he was the Chicago Tribune, and with him alone it would soar; without him it would perish. About that time, he convined several Chicago capitalists, without newspaper experience, that he could take the Record-Herald, a sickly hyphenated journal, and make it a second Tribune. So he left the "World's Greatest Newspaper" and, together with his associates, took over the nondescript Record-Herald. Then they sat back to see the Tribune wither away.

We followed the venture with interest. A constant reader of the Tribune at the time, and with a professional power of discrimination, we could not see the slightest change in the Tribune after Kelly left. His resignation caused not a ripple on the surface of that wonderful organization.

The Record-Herald languished a while under the new management and then was taken over by Hearst out of a sense of pity for the dazed Kelly and his friends. The late "genius" of the Tribune lost his everything, and his mythical reputation was gone.

It is but another case of one who could not stand flattery.

** * **

The Tribune is still one of the world's greatest newspapers. It is an institution, and an institution endureth; but individuals are but shadows, and dissolve. So passed Kelly into oblivion, the victim of a misplaced faith in his own indispensability.

What About That First Dollar? Citizens Tell How It Was Made

That first dollar-

Memory of memories! Even J. D. likes to tell about it and still has a good time when he does.

The I. R. (Inquiring Reporter), fortified with sturdy pencil and a big bag of question marks, trekked over Niles this week in an effort to learn how prominent local citizens first came into possession of that initial, monetary unit.

Judge Joseph A. Silva, true Californian and one of the poppy state's most loyal native son's was the first one in Niles to be asked how he earned his first silver cart wheel.

"Oh, it's been so long ago," began the genial Judge, who besides keeping pace in the community is a licensed real estate broker and insurance man, "but I guess I remember. It was cutting apricots at the age of twelve, but it took me three days to earn a dollar." Times have changed and Judge Silva is glad of it.

"Yes. I approve of the so-called 'younger generation.' They're alright and the world is much better off today than it ever has been."

The Judge is muchly interested in the trip of the Graf Zepplin and admits he's "air-minded but as yet hasn't gotten the nerve to go up."

'I wish Niles had an airport," said Silva, "aviation is changing history so fast that it seems only fair that every community should get in the crest of the wave or the clouds," smiled the up-holder of the law.

Judge Silva was born in Half Moon Bay but came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Silva, to live in Niles at the early age of three. He has lived all his life in this community and has proven one of it's most valued and respected citizens.

Five years he has acted as Justice of the Peace in Niles, his intelligence and sane interpretation of the law has given him a noteworthy reputation throughout the vicinity.

He's married and happy. His favorite sport is work and he says, "when I find a job I don't like I quit—work is my life and I want to like life."

No saner philosophy has ever been uttered.

Miss Verna Orcutt Enjoys Long Motor Trips

Seven and eleven! Not a gamble in this case but the interesting story of a youthful Niles traveler who has journeyed from coast to coast seven times in the short span of four years and with only eleven birthdays to her credit so far.

Verna Orcutt, who returned here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs Leon Orcutt. Sunday from a most recent venture between the Golden Gate and Manhattan, is the continent record maker.

The local family made the cross country trip by automobile and the mileage went up to something like 7800 before they got back to the town limits of Niles.

On the way east the party turned north into Canada at Detroit. The trip homeward was made along the southern route.

Mrs. Orcutt. who is the local postmistress admitted a weakness for New York but added, "California is the most beautiful state of course, and it seemed mighty good to get home—and that will go for the rest of the family too."

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dixon Bristow returned here Monday after a week's enjoyable vacation stay at Marysville.

TWO LOCAL COWS SET RECORD; GIVE BIRTH TO TRIPLETS

When a cow has a calf, that isn't news, but when an ordinary Holstein breaks the laws of nature by having triplets, she should also break into print. So believes L. Rickenbacker, of Centerville, one of whose cows proceeded to distinquish herself on August 9 by giving birth to three perfectly normal, healthy calves.

Rickenbacker lives on the Stevenson ranch. 1½ miles down Cedar Road, the first road from Centerville that turns to the right.

Not only did he put his calves on exhibition, but also had them photographed as a permanent testimonial.

This is not the first freak birth that has happened this year in Alameda county. Several months ago one of the cows on the Zwissig dairy in Decoto also gave birth to triplets. The calves are growing up like ordinary calves, Zwissig reports. The pictures of these three animals appeared in a city paper recently bringing wide publicity to Decoto as well as Washington township.

Subscription price, $2.00 per year.

Should any of your flock begin to show symptoms of roup, no time should be lost in starting measures to prevent further spread. Droppings, litter and trash of every description should be removed and burned. All unnecessary equipment of every kind should be removed from houses and yards and stored elsewhere.

Ohio Station Advocates All-Mash Chick Ration

The rearing of chicks to maturity on all-mash ration is a rather new venture in poultry keeping, and we shall have to take the word of those who have tried it as to its value. This system has been developed and advocated by the Ohio agricultural experiment station, at Wooster, and is fully described in a bulletin issued by this station. They state that they have found the method successful on their experimental farm and equally so in the hands of other poultrymen of the state. Some other stations, where it has been tried, discount these claims somewhat. There is no question as to the attractiveness of the plan and the results at the Ohio station should be sufficient to give warrant for trying it out.

Those who have followed the teaching of poultry experts over a considerabie period of years have learned that there is little that can be considered as absolutely fixed, even in the seeming fundamental principles of feeding and care. Revolutionary findings are apt at any time to upset long accepted practices. The all-mash ration should not have scratch grains added to it, since it combines in itself both the scratch and the mash and the addition of more scratch grain would unbalance it. That is, it would change the proportion of protein foods to the other ingredients and presumably lessen its value. An all-mash should be more coarsely ground than other mashes, to make it more palatable.

The Pleasanton Times Celebrated Forty-Seventh Anniversary Friday

Paper Changed Hands Many Times In Early Days

Last Friday the Pleasanton Times completed the forty seventh year of its existence. Forty seven years ago, volume one, number one of this publication, then known as The Pleasanton Star. arrived from the city where it was printed and was quickly distributed. It was small then; had no backing, not a single paid up subscription; less than twenty dollars a month advertising; no facilities for doing job work; and the editor had no experience in the business except as an occasional reporter and correspondent for the Chico Record.

On Monday, June 25, 1888, E. B. Thompson assumed the editorship and business management of the paper, the owner. L. J. Foley, who until that time had edited and managed the Star himself, assumed control of a new paper at Mariposa.

This arrangement continued to good advantage until November 10, 1888, when E. B. Thompson publishes the following notice, taken from the Star issued on that date:

NOTICE!

With this issue the present editor of the Star, ceases to be connected with the paper. The election is over, Harrison is elected and the excitement of the campaign and the editing of this paper is a thing of the past. Others will fill the position now vacant, with glory and honor. and we sincerely hope that all may be as well satisfied as

Yours truly,
THE EDITOR.

With the following issue the owner, D. J. Foley, resumed active control and the editorship of the Star. He formed a company, published the paper under the name of D. J. Foley & Co., and in December, 1888, formed the Star Publishing Co, P. Reedy and R. F. Foley serving as co-editors. Reedy dropped out late in January, and D. J. Foley again took the editorship in February. The paper was sold to H. A. Downer of Oakland on February 9, 1889.

On February 23, two weeks later, E. J. Harms and A. J. Stover took over the paper. Foley returning to Mariposa. Stover dropped out in October, 1889. and Harms continued with the paper alone.

Harms sold out on November 16, 1889 to E. B. Thompson, former editor under Foley, who

C. P. O. Box No. 1234,
Shanghai,, China.
June 27, 1929.

Dear Editor:

Here comes a letter from this land of intrigue, graft, warfare, famine, suffering, chaos, to tell you and the readers of your excellent paper about China's new woman who has a share in the "goings-on."

If a woman in China, twenty years ago, had been given a Rip Van Winkle sleep, she would be more surprised than he was, should she awake today. Then women had to stay indoors and work something like domestic animals. Or, if of a better family, be cooped up at home and stay there. She was allowed to be seen only by her husband or brothers.

Now what a change! The modern Chinese young women skip around the streets with a spring, grace and freedom that's quite refreshing when one remembers the women formerly hobbling along on bound feet supported by amahs. Now girls bob, shingle, or permanent wave their hair. That's a sign of freedom! They ride bicycles, play tennis, basket-ball and engage in other athletics. Formerly the parents arranged their marriage. Now one often sees the young ladies walking very affectionately arm in arm with their "best boys," and the young people often do the arranging. The dress used to be the most modest of any nationality. Now women are often seen with short sleeves and very low-necked frocks even at mid-day. Sometimes they're seen with the most up-to-date up-beyond-the-knee short frocks and flimsy silk hose and very high-heeled shoes. Indeed the Chinese girls are quite amusing flappers sometimes—shocking sometimes—so much so that the officials have felt it necessary to issue proclamations commanding them to dress modestly. The girls have even learned to flirt in the most-up-to-date way. That's freedom! They dance in the latest style. They ride horses, astride, with boots and riding breeches. That's English, you know!

Once the ideal for girls was that they be able to do beautiful needlework at home. Now they are doing other things. They are clerks in stores. Some are typists and stenographers. Some are bankers. They play the organ or piano or other musical instruments. Some are becoming movie artists or actresses. Some are lawyers and judges and doctors, are teachers and kindergarteners. They even become soldiers and sometimes they become Generals' secretaries. Women also become street-corner politicians and scream the Revolutionary platitudes such as, "Down with Imperialism," "Give the people freedom," to beat the most zealous men Revolutionaries. Rarely do you see meetings for propaganda or riots without seeing girls or women taking active part in them, urging on the riots. I am glad to say that some few of them are taking part in the Red Cross work in relieving the suffering of those wounded in battle. Women, too, occupy places of influence in the government in Nanking. Once women's faces lacked all hope and ambition, and there are still great hosts of women who are the same drudges at home or—worse—in great factories. But among the younger generation they have ambition—ambition that carries them to extremes.

I'm glad to say that there are many modest, motherly women who have gone through our mission schools who are making nice, clean, beautiful Christian homes where the children are brought up well and taught to be good useful members of society, children of whom they and missions can be proud and thankful. One can not expect great things from a nation in which the people have been brought up for ages in filth, physical and moral; but a new generaion is coming on, born anew in the church of Christ and in these clean Christian homes. We are expecting much for China from such.

Things are out of joint in China; but we hope and pray that the common sense of better Chinese and the deeply planted power of the Gospel will gradually overcome the criminal influence and that China will find peace, prosperity, and a place among the great nations of the world.

Yours in Christ's glad service,
Rev. H. G. C. Hallock.

Watch Young Birds

Watch young and delicate birds very closely as they are most susceptible to the deadly roup germs. The same is true of fowls suffering from common cold or catarrh. The throat and nasal passages, being already sore and inflamed, are easily infected. Sick birds should always be isolated. They can be much more effectively treated when away from the flock and they cannot contaminate the healthier ones if the disease should prove to be contagious.

The Keystone State's Capitol

FOR massiveness of construction and outstandingness in its home town, Harrisburg, the impressive capitol of Pennsylvania ranks high among the beautiful capitols of America. Dedicated in 1906, the cost of building, furnishings and equipment was more than $11,000,000.

A description prepared by the state librarian relates: "The capitol building is 520 feet long, 254 feet wide and 272 feet high. It covers two acres of ground and is half a mile in circumference. It is larger than St. Paul's cathedral, for the building of which Sir Christopher Wrenn was knighted. It is longer than Westminster abbey. The building contains 475 rooms. The dome, which has been called "the heart of the capitol," weighs 52,000,000 pounds. Every country in the world contributed material for the construction and furnishing of the building, and the most famous artists in the world devoted their talents to making it beautiful.

Each of the great main entrance bronze doors were cast in one piece and weigh a ton. The governor's reception room is 72 by 27 feet. The senate chamber is 95 by 80 feet. The house of representatives is larger and even more ornate. The stained-glass windows in both are celebrated examples of art. The great paintings which ornament both legislative halls have called forth unstinted praise.

In the dome are set the memorable words of Penn, the founder of the state: "There may be room there for such a holy experiment. For the nations want a precedent. And yet my God will make it the seed of a nation. That an example may be set up to the nations. That we may do the thing that is truly wise and just."

MORE ON MUSICAL PROGRAM

thus giving all students the opportunity of pursuing this practical subject. Such instruments as violins, saxophones, and cornets are personally owned.

With this additional time allotted to music Mr. Kimber will be able to produce an orchestra and band worthy of name.

W. U. H. S. Band Program

The band which consists of all woodwind instruments will be augmented by the best players from the township grammer school before they play at the State Band contest to be held in San Francisco next spring. Although the last year's band did not enter the contest many of the members attended and gained much valuable information as well as seeing and hearing the other best high school bands of the state play. The W. U. H. S. Band will play in their regular dress uniforms.. which are simple but attractive.

Orchestras Exchange Concerts

"This year's orchestra will surpass all previous ones," says Kimber. The programs and concerts given last year were very popular with the Washington township music patrons. A full account of the work done last year by this department appeared in the annual, distributed in June by the senior class.

"The Hayward High school orchestra will exchange several concerts with our high school orchestra this year. All of the high school plays and programs that are given during the coming year will be accompanied or supplemented by the orchestra.

"Marching and bleacher stunts will probably be performed at the various main athletic events this year.

An Investment That Pays

With regard to the music program. Mr. Kimber states:

"There are few better investments that a parent can make for a child than to place in his or her hands a fine musical instrument which can be used in band or orchestra. It means many hours of the finest kind of pleasure throughout life, a wholesome use of leisure time, inspiring social contacts, an often improved health, through deeper breathing in the case of wind instruments, as well as often serving as a means of highly profitable employment. Many students have been able to work their way through school and college with comparative ease. as a result of their ability to play some instrument well enough to command frequent engagements.

"There are few boys and girls who would not enjoy playing in a band or orchestra, or who have not a reasonable amount of the musical ability necessary to learn to play an instrument in such an organization. A great many students who have neither the desire nor the ability to become soloists are quite capable of becoming important members of a fine band or orchestra."

Organization of Night School Band

With the opening of the night school in the high school building at Centerville, a fine township band will be organized under the direction of J. P. McClellan, direator of the Palo Alto Muincipal Band, assisted by J. E. Kimber, of the high school faculty, who was a director of the Palo Alto Symphony Orchestra for several years. This band will be open to all adults of this township who can play a wind instrument; the best members of the high school band; and the best players from the grammar schools. Several of the school teachers of this district have already expressed their desire of playing in this township band, as well as many adults.

Vocal music taught by Miss Lesda Sayles will again be open to both boys and girls of the high school this year. The combined glee clubs' main event is the annual operetta.

Grammar School Music

Mrs. Charlotte Foster will again have full charge of vocal music and glee clubs in most of the grammar schools. The operettas given by the schools at the close of the term were very popular. J. P. McClellan. last term's part time teacher. will have full charge this year of the instrumental music in most of the grammar schools which will again compete for the silver cups next spring.

VARIETY FEATURES THIS WEEK AT NILES

There's more than enough spice at the Niles Theatre this week—that is if it's true that variety is synonymous with the zest of life.

Tonight, Ramon Narvarro, sometimes called the "greatest Latin lover," appears in the famous screen play the "Pagan" with Renee Adoree, the petite little French star of "The Big Parade.'

"The Pagan" when it first appeared in New York was proclaimed by even the most jaded, and sophisticated of the critic clan, as "one of the finest motion pictures ever made."

Friday and Saturday everyone from the youngsters to granny will be given a real treat when Richard Dix appears in "The Redskin," — for after all who doesn't revel in being part of the great west—even if only as a movie audience?

Sunday and Monday an all talking epic of the air is logged, "The Flying Fool." William Boyd an aviator off the screen as well as on, takes the lead supported by the beautiful Marie Prevost. When you see Boyd manuever his different type ships in the air. bring down enemy planes with his deadly Vickers guns, jump parachutes and walk wings, you'll be up in the air and looking around for the cord of your 'chute'. It's one of the greatest pictures ever taken amongst the clouds and one you can't afford to miss. When Art Goebel, world famous pilot, saw the film se said, "It's real."

eGorge Bancroft's "Thunderbolt" is booked for an early run at the Niles theatre and promises to fulfill all expectations of Bancroft fans.

Cheer Up Girls! Hear This Late Good News

It's alright girls you can take a second helping—of canned fruit. Mighty sweet and you don't have to count the calories either, besides it will smooth out the skin you love to touch.

M. C. Alsip, who is responsible for all the syrup that is made at the Schuckl Cannery told us the good news yesterday.

"Our syrup isn't fattening but it's the best tasting and most healthful liquid made," said Alsip, and his assurance made us believe him.

The cannery is now preparing 30,000 cases of peaches, the majority which wil be exported to England and other foreign countries.

Next week fruit salads will be the dish.

Martin Lohla, 55, of Decoto. is nursing a sore ear this week as a result of a crash Saturday with a truck driven by Arnold Segerquist of Alameda. Lohla collided with the truck in the streets of Alameda badly damaging his car and injuring the side of his face and ear. No blame has been fixed on either driver.

MORE ON ALVARADO RIGHTS

ameda County Water District. It was hoped that eventually these pumping rights would be abandoned by the Utility district but the offer of purchase by the private corporation raised so grave and dangerous a situation that the Board of Directors of the Alameda County Water District resolved to avert it for all time by purchasing the rights,

Stopping the diversion of between six and eight million gallons of water daily is the only immediate source of relief in building up the underground water supply. To build a dam to provide this amount of water would cost the District a million dollars. At present there is no site available on the water shed of Alameda creek as all the favorable dam sites are under control of the Spring Valley Water company. The only one that seems adaptable is the site on the San Antonio (La Costa) creek watershed. This is now under option to the city of San Francisco. Even if the city finally decides not to use it when the Hetch Hetchy system is completed it will be several years before such a diversion could be reached and it is not at all certain that such a decision will be made for many years.

The only other possible watershed is on the May estate at Decoto but the possibility for run off and storage is much more limited. The diverison of water to points outside the District by a private corporation drawing from the underground supply is a discouraging factor if the District must go to a great expense to develop an increased supply for the future. By stopping the diversion at Alvarado and then using whatever methods can be applied to increase the percolation into the gravel beds during flood times it is hoped to stop the present lowering of the water table. Eventually we are bound to have some rainy seasons with good floods when it is hoped the levels will again be raised. It will of course take a good many favorable seasons to bring the levels up to what they were in the past.

By stopping the diversion at Alvarado the District will be placed in a more favorable position to gain the cooperation of San Francisco in increasing the amount of released water from Calaveras dam after the Hetch Hetchy supply is brought in. The diversion at Alvarado has always been a great drawback in dealing with the Spring Valley Water Company.

Because of the friendly attitude of San Francisco brought about by the cooperation of the Alameda County Water District since 1913 and also because the Raker act makes it possible the District will be enabled to secure a supply for domestic purposes and fire protection from the Hetch Hetchy supply that will pass through the District. As the District passes more to industrial purposes and as the towns grow and the larger tracts of land are cut up the proportion of water needed for domestic purposes as compared to the irrigation needs will naturally increase. Whatever water can be secured by the District for domestic purposes from the Hetch Hetchy supply will to that extent relieve the draft in the underground supply. Because the big and important thing right now is to save the underground supply, anything that will help in that must be done first. The building of a domestic distribution system is not quite so urgent or imminent but the District can plan for it.

The purchase of the pumping rights at Alvarado will first of all bring security to all the property within the District. It will give greater promise to the future development of the District and this will incresae property values. It seems the only wise thing to do.

Traffic Officer Cliff Ralph who was sitting on the railing of the bridge at the time saw the rear door of the Young sedan fly open and the baby hit the pavement and roll under his feet.

"I was never so happy in my life to hear a kid give a healthy yell," said Ralph after he had picked up the baby who proved to be only slightly hurt.

At the Three Link hospital in Livermore the child was treated for bruises and a slight laceration of the scalp.
